

RESIDENTIAL CODE TRAINING

offered by the Indiana Builders Association in collaboration with APA - The Engineered Wood Association

DETAILS

This training is for residential contractors, HVAC contractors, insulation contractors, design professionals, building officials, home inspectors, product suppliers, and energy efficiency consultants.

Training participants will learn about the residential energy efficiency requirements, including insulation requirements for various foundations (basement, slab-on-grade, crawl space), as well as the top framing concerns in residential construction including wall bracing requirements and simplified wall bracing, wall systems, floor systems and roof/ceiling systems.

ICC CEU: 0.40 on 1/25 and 3/16; 0.30 on 2/25

NAHB CE: 4 hours on 1/25 and 3/16; 3 hours on 2/25

PRESENTER

Wood framing expert Matthew Brown will bring his unique perspective on energy efficiency and top framing concerns in residential construction to three trainings offered across Indiana during the first quarter of the year.

With more than a decade of experience as the Design and Quality Manager for Accent Homes, Inc., in northern Indiana, Brown joined APA-The Engineered Wood Association in July 2014 to lead its educational efforts.

Matt is an ICC Certified Residential Energy Code Inspector and Plans Examiner as well as a HERS Rater and Certified Green Professional.
